HISTORICAL NOTE.

THE NEW YORK ACADEMY OF MEDICINE was organized in the City of New York on January 6, 1847, and by a special act of the Legislature of the State of New York was incorporated on June 23, 1851. This act was amended on June 4, 1853, empowering the incorporators to appoint five delegates to represent them in The Medical Society of the State of New York, with all the powers and privileges possessed by delegates from the respective medical colleges of the State. A supplementary act was passed, June 2, 1877, conferring upon the Academy certain trust powers and privileges.

From the inception of the Academy, one of its purposes has been the provision of a building or hall, where its meetings might be held, where a library and museum could be established, and where the profession could meet on common ground. The efforts put forth in this direction culminated, in 1875, in the purchase of a building, centrally located on thirty-first street, near Fifth avenue, which was, by the generous gift of a worthy Benefactor, Dr. Abram DuBois, enlarged so as to cover the entire lot, thereby providing a library hall and audience room, which for a number of years answered the Academy's wants and those of the profession.

In time, however, the opportunities thus furnished proved insufficient. The Fellows of the Academy formed a number of Sections, for special discussions, each of which held a monthly meeting, moreover, medical and other scientific societies not affiliated with the Academy rented its rooms for their gatherings, and thus the accommodations were often insufficient. The library grew steadily in number and value of books and periodicals, etc.; the shelf room was exhausted; the journal and reading-rooms became much too small for those eager to utilize them, for, the library being free to the public during certain hours, the Academy had to supply not only the wants of its Fellows, but also of the profession at large and the public. Finally, the building not being fire-proof, the treasures contained in it were constantly exposed to danger, and thus the necessity of erecting a large fire-proof building became urgent.

When informed of this state of things, Mrs. Anna Woerishoffer, in memory of her husband, the late Mr. Charles F. Woerishoffer, gave twenty-five thousand dollars in aid of a building fund. Within a year after, Mrs. Celine B. Hosack, in memory of her husband, the late Dr. Alexander E. Hosack, left to the Academy the generous bequest of seventy thousand dollars. Thus, with the aid of both professional and lay friends, nearly all the funds required for the contemplated new building were gathered, and several years since the new edifice became free of debt.

The building covers a plot 75 x 100 feet, is five stories high, fire-proof, contains an audience room—Hosack Hall—a banquet-room, a stack room, sufficient for 90,000 volumes, an imposing reference library room, Woerishoffer Hall, with adjoining journal and reading rooms, rooms for study, five large rooms for the meetings of Sections and scientific gatherings in general, a conversation room, a reception room and many other necessary accommodations. It became evident however in 1908 that what had previously appeared to be ample accommodation had already become insufficient owing to the large increase in the membership of the Academy, in the number of volumes in the Library and in the number of those who consult its books and periodicals. In 1909 the Library Committee made a careful investigation of the library needs, reported that the total empty space on the shelves was barely sufficient for two years normal growth and described the then existing crowded condition of books and pamphlets and the resulting difficulty in their use. A large special Committee of the Academy was therefore appointed and after considering various plans for increasing the size of the building on the present site—moving to a new site—and buying additional adjacent property—this Committee recommended the third plan, and arranged for the purchase of the adjacent lot at 15 West 43rd Street and the lot in the rear at 10 West 44th Street. On July 18, 1910, the Academy voted its approval and the named lots were immediately purchased. There have been since appointed two Committees one on Finance to raise subscriptions for the purchase and building fund, and one on Plan and Scope to devise a plan for using the new property to the best advantage.

The Academy's publications comprise thirteen volumes of Transactions, four volumes of the Bulletin, and some fifty miscellaneous Addresses, Memoirs, and Reports, copies of which are for sale or will be exchanged for works not already in the Library.

The Library contains over 90,000 bound volumes, over 40,000 pamphlets, and takes regularly over 1,500 current periodicals, comprising nearly all the medical journals, Transactions of Medical Societies, Hospitals, and Boards of Health Reports of value, published throughout the world, and is open free to the medical profession and the public daily from 9 A.M. to 2 P.M. and to the members of the Academy from 9 A.M. to 10:30 P.M.; Sundays, legal holidays and such portion of the Summer season as the Council directs excepted.
